

TRIP OVERVIEW

Unleash your inner adventurer on this stunning swimming holiday in Oman. Taking in the awe-inspiring fjords of the spectacular Musandam Peninsula, this trip gives you the chance to discover some truly breathtaking locations, many of which had never been swum in prior to SwimTrek's arrival in the area.

Often described as the 'Norway of Arabia', the Musandam Peninsula is one of the Persian Gulf's great wildernesses. Separated from the rest of Oman by the UAE, the peninsula lies at the extreme north-eastern tip of Arabia, where the steep red rocks of the Hajar Mountains plunge into the blue waters of the Arabian Gulf, creating a labyrinth of massive fjords (khors).

Our traditional local dhow is the perfect vessel from which to explore this area, and our swimmers are often accompanied by the friendly dolphins who frequently visit these waters. From the towering cliffs and incredible views to the local culture and delicious cuisine, this trip allows you to experience this fascinating corner of the world from a truly unique perspective.

WHO IS THIS TRIP FOR?

This trip is ideal for swimmers who are looking for an adventurous swimming experience in one of SwimTrek's most unique destinations. Swimmers should have a basic understanding of open water swimming and be capable of completing the average daily swim distance of around 6km prior to the start of the trip.

LOCATION SUMMARIES

Musandam

Geographically, the Musandam Peninsula juts out into the Strait of Hormuz, the narrow entry into the Persian Gulf, from the Arabian Peninsula.

Khasab

Our base for the trip is in the sleepy town of Khasab. Lying on a plain nestled between the mountains and the sea, this is the starting point for our trip to the Khor Ash Sham fjord. With Iranian traders loading up goods in the Old Souk to take back across the Strait of Hormuz, it feels like a real frontier town.

Khor Ash Sham Fjord

Khor Ash Sham is the longest and most dramatic of the many fjords in Musandam. All the fjords (khors) are actually flooded valleys, formed as a result of Musandam's progressive decline beneath the Eurasian continental plate. Craggy cliffs litter the landscape along with small island communities which are accessible only by boat.

Telegraph Island

Telegraph Island was once a crucial hub in Britain's link with her empire. At the centre of the telegraph line between London and Bombay, it was originally known as Jazirat al Maqlab and it offered a refuge from the potentially hostile local tribes of the mainland.

Finish Time	09:00 on Day 6

Daily Itineraries

Please note that the below daily itineraries are an example of the swims that may take place during the course of your trip, however, actual swim locations and distances will vary according to local weather and sea conditions. Your SwimTrek guides and local boat pilot will determine the most suitable swim locations each day and will communicate the plan with all guests as soon as possible.

Day 1

After checking into the hotel you will have some time to settle in and explore before we meet later in the evening for our welcome meeting, where we'll discuss the weeks swims that lie ahead, followed by a safety briefing. We then take an acclimatisation swim at the nearby Bassa Beach, which is the perfect opportunity to get used to the local waters in preparation for tomorrow's first day of swimming.

Day 2

We depart from our hotel and travel to Khor Ash Sham, the largest of the fjords in the Musandam Peninsula. As we set off towards the fishing village of Nadifi, the first thing you notice is the sheer size of what you are entering. We swim a section of the the northern coastline of the khor towards Sham village. In this isolated location, the local dialect, Kumzari, is generally spoken, which sounds distinctly more like Farsi than Arabic, and is another reminder of the wide range of influences which have helped to shape the culture in this part of the world.

After a lunch of delicious local food on board our dhow, we attempt our first crossing of the khor by swimming across Nadifi Bay. It's a stunning crossing of Khor Ash Sham. In the middle of the crossing, you can see down the entire length of the khor for the first time. On arrival back at our hotel overlooking the sea, we carry out a stroke technique session and video analysis in the hotel pool, complete with stunning views of the surrounding landscapes.

Day 3

We begin the day swimming a full circumnavigation of Jazirat Shamm, an island which enjoys plenty of marine life in its surrounding waters. We then make the short crossing to Telegraph Island, the home of an old British repeater station. On reaching the island, we disembark and have the chance to explore this old symbol of the Empire. We take lunch on the island and here we enjoy unrivalled views along the khor.

We then finish the day with an east Shamm island Coastal Swim. This part of the khor is one of the most likely areas to spot the humpback dolphin, which is local to these fjords.

Day 4

This morning we head even further into the khor, crossing to its northern edge between peninsulas before reaching Seebi Island, famous for its golden white sands. You can see the bottom of the seabed the entire way around our morning circumnavigation of the island.

After lunch, we spend the afternoon making our way back west as we swim towards the entrance of the khor before heading back to Khasab.

Day 5

We have an early start this morning as we journey down the entire length of Khor Ash Sham, a distance of over 20 kilometres. We travel to the most remote village in the khor, Seebi, where the water is generally at its clearest.

From here, we swim along the coastline, where the cliffs plunge down into the sea. We'll pass Turtle Rock and swim under the imposing cliff face of Mount Seebi. After lunch taken on board the dhow, there is an opportunity to walk up the side of the narrow isthmus which separates the Persian Gulf (Khor Ash Sham) from the Gulf of Oman (Khor Najd). It is undoubtedly one of the most spectacular views in the whole of the Middle East.

After finishing our last swim we jump back onto the boat and enjoy a cruise for the final time past this magnificent land and seascape.

Day 6

After the exertions of the week, it's time for a relaxing swim directly in front of our hotel. We head towards Bassa Beach, a popular spot with local swimmers. We'll swim a loop of the reef before returning back to the hotel, thus bringing to an end this unique swimming trip in the fjords of Musandam.
